

I am kind of guy who is dedicated in every work I do and I am a quick learner always eager to learn new things, usually i think a lot and one thing i am proud of myself is that i am unique because i get motivated by the fear of being average. I've been told that i am persistent, Edutaining others is something which i would love to do, I set high goals and according to me success is when i don't need this resume to introduce myself to others.
